Russia Asks Peace Talks For Germany

Wants Parley To Start Within Two Months At Prague or Warsaw

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Russia proposed in notes to the Western Big Three and 24 other nations today the convocation of a German peace conference in Prague or Warsaw within two months.

Along with the notes went a 25-page proposed peace treaty which would make West Berlin an unmarked free city until such time as the two Germanys are united.

Offered 5 Years Ago

The proposed draft treaty was similar to that offered by former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov five years ago, and included provisions which the Western Powers previously have rejected.

Among the proposals were (1) Germany be prohibited from joining any military bloc which does not include all signatory nations and (2) all foreign troops pull out of Germany within one year.

Other sections would prohibit German claims to Eastern territories now occupied by Poland.

The note went to all countries that participated in World War II against Hitler's forces.

The Soviet notes were in reply to Western rejections of an earlier Soviet note. The note of Nov. 27 had proposed that the United States, Britain and France pull their troops out of West Berlin, leaving it an unarmed free city.

Suggested Conference

In similar Western rejections, the three nations suggested that a Big Four conference be called to consider the whole German problem, including reunification.

However, Tass said the Soviet draft treaty proposal was given the Western Big Three "for transmission to governments of these states and other states who took part with their armed forces in the war against Germany, as well as to the governments of the German Democratic Republic (Communist East Germany) and the Federal German Republic (West Germany.)"

The West has refused repeated Soviet suggestions that it sit down with East Germany to discuss a peace treaty or reunification. The West contends that the East German regime is illegal because it does not have popular support and therefore does not deserve a place in discussions.

Would Play Positive Part

The Tass statement went on:

"The conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany would play a positive part not only in safeguarding peace in Europe but also in solving the all-national task of the German people: the unification of Germany.

"The note of the Soviet government to the governments of the U.S.A., Britain and France also replies to the notes of these governments on the Berlin question and again expresses the desire to settle the Berlin question through the states concerned."

The U S reply to the earlier Soviet note had said Berlin should be discussed "in the wider framework of negotiations for a solution of the German problem as well as that of European security."

Local 1949 Ratification Still Needed

Union Plans Meeting Monday Afternoon To Take Action on Pact

Tentative agreement on all terms of a new two-year contract was reached late Friday night by bargaining committees from the Marion Power Shovel Co. and Steel Workers Local 1949.

Company and union officials issued a joint statement today saying that terms of the agreement would not be disclosed pending ratification by the union membership.

Union Meeting Set Monday

The union bargaining committee, which indicated it would recommend acceptance by the membership, has scheduled a meeting for a vote on the agreement at 2 p.m. Monday in the USW Building on Uncapher Ave.

Now in its 17th week, the strike was called by the local's negotiating committee Sept. 9 and affected some 1,400 members employed at the company's W. Center St. plant.

Disagreement over a new contract developed between the union and company in May. Union members already had agreed to terms of a two-year pact calling for an immediate 5-cent hourly wage hike, another 5-cent boost in 1959 and a 7th paid holiday. The terms were rejected, however, before a contract signing could be effected.

At the outset of the strike, the chief dispute centered on a seniority issue but later the principal disagreement shifted to wages.

Neared Agreement in December

Tentative agreement on noneconomic issues was reached in early December after a week of negotiations in Cleveland, but the agreement hinged on later agreement on economic issues.

The union membership rejected a company offer on economic issues Dec. 12. It called for an immediate 7-cent wage boost (including the 5 cents granted in May, 8 cents in 1959 and 8 cents in 1960.

The strike did not affect other unions having representation at the Shovel plants. Contracts were signed in early summer by USW Local 2627 (office workers), the IAM local at Osgood, and the Moulders and Foundry Workers local at Commercial Steel. The contracts called for immediate 5-cent wage increases, 4 cents in 1959 and a 7th paid holiday.

The latest in a series of bargaining sessions between Local 1949 and Shovel negotiators began Thursday morning. The talks were resumed Friday morning and continued into the night. Russell Turner of the Federal Mediation Service was present both days and assisted in the final negotiations.

Men Representing Union

Representing the union at the final sessions were:

John S. Johns, district director; Edgar DeLasalle, staff representative; Earl Fleming, president of Local 1949; Harold Townsend, vice president; Howard Rizer, treasurer; Francis Postell, financial secretary; Gerald Chandler, chairman of the grievance committee; William Walter, trustee, and Arthur Levy, co-chairman of the grievance committee.

The company was represented by D. Russell Gochnour, employe relations director; David Reich, vice president; John Wettergreen, vice president; Robert Scott, industrial relations manager, and J. L. Halberstein of the Strelitz, Halberstein and Mitchell law firm.

Pledge Loyalty

Rival Rebel Units Will Back Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Two rival rebel units swore loyalty to Fidel Castro today, apparently heading off a threat of serious quarrels within the revolutionary movement.

The two are the student backed Revolutionary Directorate and the Second National Front of Escambray. Both had complained of lack of representation in the new provisional government.

Castro, whose 26th of July Movement spearheaded the drive that finally toppled dictator Fulgencio Batista, had accused the directorate of seizing huge arms stores and warned: "Whoever does anything that places the revolution in danger is a criminal and a traitor."

Ready To Deliver Arms

Maj. Faure Chaumont, commanding the directorate's troops, told a news conference later: "We are ready to deliver the arms and do all necessary for the tranquilty of the republic."

This sentiment was echoed by Maj. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, whose Second National front of Escambray was in the forefront of the battle of Santa Clara, the engagement that convinced Batista that the game was up.

"We are at the disposition of President Manuel Urrutia and Commander in Chief Fidel Castro," he said.

Castro, who had accused Chaumont of hostility to the Castro movement, was quoted by the newspaper Diarionacional as saying he was overjoyed at the return of the arms taken by the directorate.

On the matter of U. S. relations, Castro told reporters he is sympathetic toward the people of the United States but complained that the U. S. government armed dictators.

Pointing to tanks seized from fallen dictator Fulgencio Batista, Castro said Washington supplied them "and did not worry about our democratic feelings."

Shipments Halted

The rebel leader added at a news conference, "I must recognize that the United States in the last year did not send arms to Batista. Now the United States has recognized us and we are glad."

All weapons shipments from the United States to Cuba were halted during the latter part of Castro's guerrilla war against Batista's forces. On Wednesday Washington recognized the government of Provisional President Manuel Urrutia, whom Castro installed in office.

Castro said two or three dozen persons have been executed since he won. "Those who have been executed in eastern Cuba had abused the people," he said. "They all got trials in military courts."

Wants Legislative Group

Castro met newsmen after a leader of a separate rebel group asked checks on the power of Urrutia's government.

Castro publicly criticized him as a troublemaker, ostensibly because his group seized some arms earlier this week.

Faure Chaumont, a leader of the student-backed revolutionary directorate, wants a legislative group organized to prevent one-man rule during the provisional period.

Provisional President Manuel Urrutia, whom Castro installed, dissolved Congress Tuesday on the ground it was packed with supporters of fallen dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Chaumont also said Friday the directorate wanted free elections within a year instead of the 18 to 24 months that Urrutia and Castro have said would be needed to get Cuba back on an even keel.

Chaumont had maintained earlier that the directorate was not getting a voice in the government equal to what he claimed was its part in overthrowing Batista. Two members of Urrutia's Cabinet are members of the directorate, which consists mainly of students plus some backers of former President Carlos Prio Socarras, a Castro supporter.

Integration Ordered for White School

Georgia College Told To Admit Qualified Negroes by U.S. Court

By The Associated Press

A federal court Saturday ordered one of the largest state-sponsored, all-white colleges in Georgia to admit qualified Negroes.

The school ruling, which could affect all of the Georgia university system, came just one day after another federal judge had held that segregated seating on Atlanta's buses is illegal.

In Little Rock, Ark., meanwhile, the school board was ordered to proceed with integration of the high schools which have been closed since Sept. 12, 1958.

U S. District Court Judge Boyd Sloan struck down one of the key requirements for admission which has kept Negro applicants from gaining entrance to Georgia's white colleges. He held that the requirement calling for signatures of two or three alumni "is invalid as applied to Negroes because there are no Negro alumni."

The ruling came in the case of three Negroes seeking to enter Georgia State College of Business Administration in Atlanta. The school has some 5,550 students and ranks in size just behind the University of Georgia, Athens, and Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta.

Sloan's ruling said that the requirement calling for endorsement by alumni "makes it difficult if not impossible for Negroes to comply while white aplicants do not have similar difficulties and therefore violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment."

Two Seek Re-Election

6 More Jump Into Race For City Council Posts

Six more Marionites waded into the race for City Council Friday and today.

If all six file their petitions, contests will be assured between two Democrats for the Second Ward council nomination and a two-way race will develop for Republican nomination in the Fourth Ward.

Among those taking out papers at the board of elections this morning was Harold Smith, 60, incumbent Democratic councilman at large who seeks re-election. Before today, Mr. Smith was considered a strong possibility for either mayor or council president.

Others taking out petitions this morning and the posts they seek were:

James C. Jenkins, 59, Second Ward Democrat; Charles Shuck, 33, Fourth Ward Republican, and Robert Dorfe, 33, Fifth Ward Republican.

Taking out papers Friday were John F. Williams, 48, incumbent Democrat, seeking renomination to the Second Ward post, and Kenneth O. Potter, 38, seeking Republican nomination as Third Ward councilman.

Mr. Shuck, a former Crestline councilman, will be competing with Ralph W. Williams for the Fourth Ward seat if both file. Mr. Williams announced his candidacy earlier this week.

American Air Strike Settled

Contract Ratification Expected During Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Airlines prepared today to get its planes back in the air as union chiefs gathered to act on an agreement to end the big airline's 22-day pilots strike.

Anticipating speedy ratification, American began recalling furloughed employes and made plans to resume operations Sunday.

A settlement in principle of the dispute between American and the Air Line Pilots Assn. was announced Friday by federal mediators.

The union promptly summoned its 24-man master executive committee to meet here today to act on the agreement.

No details were announced pending agreement on specific contract language.

Warns of Bomb

Caller Threatens Mikoyan's Flight

CHICAGO (AP)—An anonymous telephone caller today threatened to blow up the plane that will carry Russian Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan to San Francisco.

Mikoyan, on tour in the United States, had booked passage on United Air Lines flight 721, due in to Chicago from the East Coast at 10:45 a.m., CST. Departure time for a direct flight to San Francisco was set at 11.20 a.m., CST.

A spokesman for United said the telephoned bomb threat was made to a reservations agent in the airline's Loop office about 3.45 a.m. today.

Had Heavy Accent

The spokesman said the anonymous voice was described by the agent as a low masculine voice with a heavy accent.

The telephoned message was:

"Listen very carefully. That flight Mikoyan is on will never get off the ground. It will blow up first."

United reported the call to the bomb squad of the Chicago police department which sent officers and detectives to Midway Airport.

The United spokesman said Mikoyan's flight originated in Boston and was en route to Chicago via Hartford, Conn.

He said maximum, though routine, searches of the plane and safety precautions were carried out at both Boston and Hartford. The plane, a DC-7, carries 58 passengers.

No Changes Planned

No change in plan was indicated by Mikoyan and members of his touring party.

Members of the police bomb squad checked their baggage. A police guard was assigned to watch the luggage and convoy it to the airport from their hotel.

One member of the Russian party responded to inquiries about its reaction by pointing to a U.S. State Department security officer and saying: "That's their business."

Mikhail Menshikov, Russian ambassador to the United States who is a member of the touring party, told newsmen:

"We always have a lot of threats."

He asked if police knew about the bomb threat and, assured they did, commented:

"They'll take care of it."

Mikoyan, who took hostile jeers in stride, mixed sightseeing with speechmaking during his 24-hour stay in Chicago. Getting into internal Soviet politics, he predicted a more important ambassador post for deposed leader V. M. Molotov.

Concluding a Midwest swing, Mikoyan Friday night talked with unusual ease and frankness about out-of-favor Molotov, now ambassador to Outer Mongolia, and other shunted Soviet officials.

Through an interpreter, Mikoyan predicted at a meeting of more than 200 lawyers at the Law Club of Chicago that Molotov, ousted as foreign minister in 1957, may get a more responsible ambassador post. But Mikoyan said Molotov will not be in a policy-making position.

Takes Crack at Beria

The gladhanding Mikoyan also described the late, feared Lavrenty Beria "as an adventurer, an intriguer, a man without principles of any sort."

Mikoyan's talk climaxed a busy sightseeing day in Chicago, which included the premiere performance of the Beryozka Russian dance company in the Civic Opera House.

Alluding to Molotov's future, Mikoyan told the lawyers:

"We have full confidence in him as an ambassador because no issues of reform will come up in any country where he is representing us."

Molotov's trouble, Mikoyan said, was that he was a conservative. He lost out in the battle with the reformers, he indicated.

Respects Him Very Much

But then Mikoyan said: "I respect him (Molotov) very much."

Asked about Beria, Mikoyan said:

"I knew Beria well. I did not respect him. He was an adventurer, a capable man but an intriguer, a man without principles of any sort. You might call him a business man in politics." (This comment evoked a roar of laughter from the audience and Mikoyan joined them.)

DiSalle Holds First Session With Cabinet

Governor-Elect, Wife Make Inspection of New Columbus Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle holds his first cabinet meeting in Columbus today after taking a peek at the home where he will live for the next four years.

DiSalle, who will be sworn in as governor Monday, arrived here from Toledo by plane Friday and went immediately to the governor's mansion in suburban Bexley, accompanied by his wife, Myrtle.

The outgoing chief executive, C. William O'Neill, moved from the mansion Wednesday with his family and took up residence in a Columbus apartment.

Mrs. DiSalle after looking over the mansion, commented: "This is going to be the craziest house."

She referred to what she called "a mob" of relatives—33 in all—who will arrive here for the DiSalle inauguration.

The mansion was in readiness to receive the three DiSalle grandchildren who will arrive with their parents. Scattered about the spacious living quarters were a small baby seat, three highchairs, and cribs in three of the eight bedrooms.

A newsman asked DiSalle, in reference to the mansion: "Think you'll take it?"

"I've got to now," DiSalle shot back, humourously.

Youths Still at Large

2 Hold Family Hostage, Escape in Sailors' Suits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two young desperadoes who held a family hostage six hours and then donned sailor uniforms to slip through a police blockade, were still at large today.

The search for the two gunmen spread out through Southern California after it became clear they had escaped from 300 police officers making a house-to-house search through a square-mile section of suburban Anaheim.

The officers were called in from a dozen neighboring communities when the two youths vanished Thursday night after a gun fight with a policeman who tried to arrest them for a $60 liquor store holdup.

Twice during the night, officers searching every house and yard in the vicinity where they disappeared called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Havey to ask if everything was all right. Twice Mrs. Havey, 27, assured them it was.

What the officers didn't know was that the two fugitives, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a pistol, stood with their guns aimed at Mrs. Harvey's two children and her husband. They had threatened to shoot unless she kept the police from entering.

Also in the house were Havey's nephew, and two of his Navy shipmates from the cruiser USS St. Paul. From 11:30 p.m. until 5:30 a.m. the gunmen held them captive. At dawn they put on sailor uniforms and forced Mrs. Havey to drive them through the police lines thrown up in the area.

Warmer Weather Due Here Sunday Afternoon

The current cold snap held fast to Marion County Friday, and was still on hand today. A high of 22 was recorded Friday, while the overnight low was 7 above zero.

The weatherman predicted the cold would continue tonight and Sunday, but held out hope for a warming trend Sunday afternoon.

The low tonight is expected to be 8 degrees and the high Sunday 35 degrees.

Shelling Halted

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Communists refrained from shelling the Quemoys Friday, an odd-numbered day. It was the first odd day they had missed without explanation since they began their alternate-day shooting schedule 10 weeks ago.

The Red guns also remained silent on schedule today.

Religion at Work

By EUGENE CARR

Peace of Mind: What Kind?

During the last several years we have witnessed a growing emphasis on the need for individual or personal peace of mind.

This emphasis has been showing up almost every day — in books, in magazine and newspaper articles, in lectures and sermons. We find it to be one of the principal objectives in psychological counseling.

The search is on as literally millions of people seek to be free of worry and anxiety. The movement is widespread and universal, reaching through all segments of society, all age groups, all income brackets. The goal is mental peace, an undisturbed state of mind.

BUT, IS THIS the kind of mental peace we really want?

Are we sure we want to be entirely free of worry and anxiety? Can we hope that such a condition ever will exist?

Are the millions now searching for a life free of complex situations and troublesome decisions going to be happier when they find it, if they find it?

So far, it appears that the answer to these questions is "No." In the light of the past, there is no such solution to mankind's problems.

Rather, the past tells us that man has experienced more inner peace or contentment when he has faced up to the problems confronting him and set about the job of solving them in a forthright manner.

His mental release has come about as a result of personal victory over his difficulties, not from sidestepping them, rationalizing them or passing them on to someone else.

This is the kind of mental peace that is healthy. Its qualities are lasting and constructive. Its foundation is made up of self-inspired confidence, faith and hope that come from the inner spirit of the individual himself.

THERE HAS BEEN altogether too much written and said about the desirability for peace of mind without defining what kind of peace of mind is desirable.

Too much that is written leaves the reader groping for a mental Utopia.

Too many lectures serve only as monetary sedatives.

Too much personal counseling is unrealistic.

Too many sermons lull the listener into a sense of false security.

It's a great big awesome world in which we live, replete with problems and loaded with challenge. The world isn't going to change; only the people in it can change.

The change we need to bring about will come not through an undisturbed state of mind but through a state of mind that is disturbed by a sense of urgency to overcome the personal problems of life when and where we find them.

Open Your Eyes!

A Sermonette

By REV. JOHN C. SEARLE, JR.
Pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church

"Open thou mine eyes that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law." Psalm 119:18

The Hayden Planetarium in New York once advertised, in the spirit of fun, that it would take reservations for trips to the moon, a jaunt of about 240,000 miles. The trip would take 9-and-one-half hours on interplanetary vehicles. Prospective travelers were warned that this speed would be hard on the blood pressure, and that the moon was a chill, arid spot, covered with a thick layer of powdered pumice where locomotion would be difficult and conversation impossible.

In spite of these drawbacks over 18,000 reservations had poured in within a few days. A psychologist studied the letters of reservation. There were, of course, some obvious gag letters like the fellow who wanted to buy the hotdog concession stands on the moon. But most of them came from people who seemed to be tired of it all. One woman from Massachusetts wrote, "It would be heaven to get away from this busy earth. I honestly wish God would let me get away — and just go somewhere it's nice and peaceful, good, safe and secure."

THIS DESIRE to escape the troubles and hubbub of our world is nothing new. The difficulty is that most apparent means of escape multiply our problems rather than solve them. Dr. Charles M. Crowe says that the only way to solve our problems is to learn to live with our responsibilities without permitting them to harm us. What we really need is not to take a trip to the moon, but to open our eyes and get acquainted with ourselves and our relationship to God who made us. We are to take a look at ourselves, not in the light of our failures, our shortcomings, or our problems but rather in the light of what we are in God's sight. St. Paul said, "The law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus has made me free from the law of sin and death."

A philosopher once said that we see just what we want to see. If we wish to see only bad in a person, then that is exactly what we will find. If we wish to see in our own lives only defeat and failure than that is what we will find. Religion is not just a matter of believing this and that and doing thus and so. The ability to see through our spiritual eyes is as valuable as any creed. It expands our souls and makes us sure of God.

It is important that we see the significant in the simple.

WE CAN EXHAUST our souls if we coninually deal only with the big things of life. Christianity does not avoid these things. Neither does it overlook the importance of the little things of life. Jesus did not spend his time in heavy, profound thought. He lived with men on friendly terms with his world. He had eyes to see the significant in the simple. The grain in the field, the bread on the table, the small coins used in His day, the sheep in the pasture, and the lilies and fig trees — all these caught his eye and had meaning for his life. It seems strange, but God has so ordered our strange universe that the big things depend on the little ones.

Take, for example, dust. Dust plays so important a part in nature that we cannot live without it. I know it is easy to look at the top of the dining room table and see that film of dust which needs removing every so often and say, "If only the world had been made so there was no such thing as dust!" Alfred Wallace said, "To the presence of dust in the higher atmosphere we owe the formation of mists, clouds, and gentle, beneficial rains, instead of water spouts and destructive torrents."

Dust does other things too. It gives us the blue of the sky and sea, the beauty of the dawn, the glory of the sunset, and the diffusion of daylight which enables us to see without the direct rays of the sun. Steel mills recover about 100 pounds of flue dust for every ton of steel made. This dust, with an iron content of 60 per cent, is made into briquettes and returned to the furnaces. A paper mill is recovering 6 tons of soda salts a day from its chimneys. A smelting plant collects 208 tons of 12 per cent copper dust daily. By-products of this waste material become indispensible parts of modern industry but for years all this was wasted, for no one ever thought of looking in the chimney for it. That would have been too simple.

It is good, also, for a man of faith to become human enough to be simple. We talk of the big things in our religion, the Holy Spirit, the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God, our belief in God as a Father, et cetera. But we need to know that these are supported by such simple things as human kindness, plain old-fashioned honesty, generosity, consideration for others. These things are so little that we too often pass them off as being unimportant.

We become more conscious of God when we become conscious of the little things at work in our world, in the marvel of the human body, in the changing seasons, in the beauty of a flower, in the rain, in the stars, in a loaf of bread.

Use unsalted or lightly salted crackers as go-alongs when serving roquefort cheese, plain or in spreads.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I Like the Younger Generation

There are a lot of wonderful young people in this country. I have met them on not a few university campuses and have to admit (and really I'm glad to do so) that they are leaps ahead of my generation when we were in school. They impress me as more mature and better informed. And while they may demonstrate a certain freedom that we did not, still I think their general moral tone holds up pretty well.

Vincent Peale

I'm impressed by their searching questions relative to moral and ethical concepts. They reveal a depth of insight and earnestness that shows they want clear definitions of right and wrong, of justice and injustice. Moreover, more of them than you might think are trying to live on high moral levels and religion is of top interest on the campus nowadays.

A few years ago I was asked by the president of my national college fraternity to serve as chairman of a committee on morals and manners. I was in for a surprise. We wrote to deans of all the colleges and universities where the fraternity is located asking how the local chapter rated morally and in manners. We told the deans that we wanted the truth with no punches pulled. Surprisingly, the great majority replied very favorably. Our committee of old grads was apparently fearful that our current active fraternity boys might be labeled as being anything from drunks to educated delinquents.

WELL, WE should have had more faith in them. We should have known them better. Their deans said that basically they are moral, serious, gentlemanly boys. Their academic standards are well up and in most instances they are credited as being creative influences in their college communities. And the same report goes for fraternities generally, not only my own.

The college fraternity is an old institution in American university life. It was organized in the early days by serious-minded students for the purpose of mutual helpfulness. Its ritual like those of adult fraternal orders is based on Biblical background, and the highest idealism is taught to the brothers at a time and under circumstances of greatest susceptibility.

Fraternities have a much deeper purpose than mere collegiate socializing. On the wall of one fraterhity house hangs a picture of the late Methodist Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell and below it his words "Fraternity among men is of God." The late Vice President of the U.S. Thomas R. Marshall said, "The forces that have been greatest in my life have been God and the college fraternity that molded me." Such was the emphasis in early days and this idealism still prevails.

SOMETIMES we are inclined to take a negative view of the young, conveniently forgetting how we ourselves often acted at the same age. Don't write them off. They will probably turn out to be high quality men and women, solid citizens who in turn will shake their heads over "the younger generation."

One day recently I was looking at my old college yearbook. It showed a picture of my fraternity chapter. One by one I went down the rows of boys, now long since men. I was impressed to realize that everyone of them had turned out well. Not a one went bad. As men they are without exception persons of whom to be proud. Each in his own way is doing a worthwhile job in life and all are respected, decent men. And believe me some of them were "plenty worried about" when they were in college, including the writer of this column.

So when I went back to the old fraternity house some time ago and had dinner and an evening with the brothers, I was really thrilled by the high grade boys they are. Maybe I'm getting old and sentimental, but I must admit that as I came down the old walk where my boyish feet once trod, there was a mist in my eye. Say what you will, young Americans in my book are still a great breed of men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SKILLED FINGERS

As the skillful fingers of the surgeon work, prayers are on the lips of loved ones. Although there is faith in the knowledge and skill of the surgeon, all realize God's help is needed.

Eventually most men realize that skill and science are not enough. Even those of us who haven't been to church services for a long, long time find ourselves instinctively saying, "Please, God," when we face a crisis.

Why wait until then? God's providential help is needed by everyone —in time of crisis and in making the constant decisions of everyday life.

The doors of the Church are wide open. Won't you come in?

Fireball Startles New Mexico Area

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A fireball trailed sparks across West Texas and New Mexico Friday night, startling some satellite-conscious residents but drawing a caustic wisecrack from rancher Marvin Rivers.

"I thought it was the latest tax rate," he said in a call from his ranch west of Roswell.

Dr. Lincoln Lapaz, meteoriticist at the University of New Mexico, explained:

"This is very probably just an ordinary meteor shower which occurs at this time of year. I think we're dealing with a meteoric fireball."

Interest Jumps in Mayor Race

Even if no more candidates file for the office before the deadline, the Marion mayoralty race now stacks up as an extremely interesting affair in both the primary and the general election.

The action taken by Mrs. Georgia Burton, 36-year-old mother of five, in entering the contest for the Republican nomination against Mayor Wendell L. Strong enlivened the election outlook greatly.

Races now are assured on both tickets, with former Safety-Service Director R. Guy Bigelow opposed by Karl D. Dune on the Democratic side.

Mrs. Burton's chances are problematical at this time, but she should not be waived out of contention because she is inexperienced, or because she is a woman.

Mayor Strong was completely inexperienced politically when he was elected, as was Gale D. Ireland before him.

Mrs. Burton has an excellent educational background, has been a close student of local city government ever since coming here, and gives every indication of being quite capable of overcoming what doubts there might be that a woman could handle the position.

She is the first Marion mayoralty candidate in recent memory to present a detailed program for progress at this early date.

A forward-looking community program is what this city needs badly and has not obtained in the last three or four years.

All the Poor Boys From Abilene

"Theories about spending and debt inherited from our small-town past, now being vigorously expressed by the man who was once a poor boy in Abilene, will push us to the wrong conclusion," warns a spokesman for the new philosophy of Happiness Through Spending.

He is David Demarest Lloyd, formerly an administrative assistant to Harry Truman and now the executive director of the former president's library at Independence, Mo. Writing in The Reporter, Lloyd refers to the idea that the federal government should live within its income on a scale commensurate with the people's willingness to pay its bills as a "dying folkway."

The pattern of government spending must change, as it did in the early New Deal, declares Lloyd. There must be something called the "national economic budget," which totals up all the spending the Happiness-Through-Spending bloc thinks would be desirable and then makes a half-hearted attempt to match the total with taxes.

If the taxes are not equal to the spending, however, there is nothing to worry about. The deficit is added to the national debt ad infinitum.

"One of the curious things about the Eisenhower administration," observes Lloyd, "is that it has not made a virtue out of the rising trend of domestic expenditures. Here, if ever, is the chance to outdeal the Fair Deal, to point with pride to increased expenditures for welfare, for farmers, and for housing as evidence of a Republican concern for the well-being of the people. Such political opportunism seems to go against the grain even of modern Republicanism."

George Humphrey, former secretary of the treasury, is Lloyd's favorite target of scorn and sarcasm, as might be expected. Humphrey was another "poor boy" handicapped by the small-town idea that the people should have something to say about the burden of taxation placed on their shoulders by bureaucrats.

This, then, is going to be the battle of the budget in 1959 — not arithmetic but principle.

The new New Dealers — cross-bred between the old New Deal and the more recent Fair Deal — are preaching the doctrine of the economic budget.

Budgeting no longer is to be a process of balancing outgo and income but a process of deciding what would satisfy the Happiness-Through-Spending faction in Washington and rustling up the wherewithal to pay the bills, adding all unpaid items to the national debt.

"An annual increase in federal spending is inevitable anyway," says Lloyd. "But apparently the annual rate of increase we have had lately is not enough to do us much good." He suggests the budget should be 100 billion by now, instead of the 77 billion the President who "was once a poor boy in Abilene" says it should be and could be.

Fact is, the rest of us Abilene boys think 77 billion is too steep, when it's remembered that we must pay local and state taxes, too. But the further fact is we're not national economic budgeteers — just taxpaying slobs who earn money so the Happiness-Through-Spending boys can get on with their social experiment.

Senate Values Right To Be Wrong

So many Americans are so dead-sure there is no defense for filibustering in the U.S. Senate they obviously never thought much about it.

The showdown that is forthcoming on this difficult issue cannot be called an open-and-shut case.

In the first place, the word "filibuster" is a harsh term for what otherwise might be called the right to stall a steamroller.

In the second place, though the right to talk a proposal to death has been used mainly by anti-civil rights orators in recent years, many other minorities have used filibusters to avoid being steam-rollered.

In the third place, in the House of Representatives, where debate can be limited and terminated, there has been nothing to prove that the right of unlimited debate in the Senate has been an adverse factor in representative democracy. The House has not proved its case.

It is true that filibusters have been used by some of the least admirable individuals and blocs in the Senate. It is true that they have been the favorite device of a type of senator with no claim to affection and respect. It is true that they are to some extent a denial of majority rule.

But it is likewise true that the Founding Fathers wanted to make sure the majority could not be used ruthlessly; the Senate's Rule XXII is in the constitutional spirit. Two thirds of the Senate can suspend it, moreover. But as long as it continues in force, there is no likelihood that debate ever will be limited.

And it is this knowledge hanging over the Senate which guarantees that nothing which would be obnoxious to more than a third of the members ever could be enacted. The attempt to change Rule XXII, which will be made early in the new Congress, is really an attempt to ride roughshod over a minority of states in the Union.

The excuse is that the minority is wrong because it is opposed to civil rights. But civil rights is only a passing issue. The right of unlimited debate is a procedural precedent.

Mikoyan and the Old Pro Touch

It is a good guess that Anastas Mikoyan would have gone the way of all old Bolsheviks if Joseph Stalin had lived a few years longer.

As it turned out, he now is in a fair way to become the father of civil service in the Soviet Union—the only public official who has weathered the variable winds of Marxist politics in the last third of a century.

His presence in the United States at this time and the range of his activities, from sight-seeing to high-level palaver, suggest that the Kremlin wants the advantage of the "old-pro" touch that only Mikoyan can give to an American visit.

Having survived so many changes and now holding down what amounts to a first vice presidency in the Soviet hierarchy, he can make contacts in the United States with more security than any other Russian official, including Premier Khrushchev. Mikoyan is in politics, as every Communist must be, but as the Soviet Union's economic expert he is apparently assured of more security than his fellow politicians.

He has watched them come and go since the days of Lenin. He has grasped the secret of survival in a palace intrigue run by a society of assassins. He has made himself valuable for his skill as an economic specialist, without relying on his skill in politics, which obviously must be of a high order too.

If the idea is to discover in the United States some possibility of relieving friction between the United States and the Soviet Union, Mikoyan is the man most likely to find it. In any circumstances, he is the Russian most likely to look for it, because he has proved unique ability to stay out of dead ends and blind alleys.

His visit looks very much like the first memorable move in a year of decisions that will break the deadlock between the United States and Russia, either for better or for worse. The status quo is doomed.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Joe Q. Citizen, speeding in super-autos over super highways in the globe's hottest search for less work and more fun seems undisturbed by Russia's "moonik," which dwarfs all rocket performances by Uncle Sam.

The Soviets have developed an engine powerful enough to shoot a huge rocket beyond the moon and make an amateur night out of a country whose engineers have long led the world in wonders.

But Americans appear curiously unconcerned as they whiz blithely along in high-powered station wagons or fly in jet planes to pleasure resorts, craving less work, longer weekends, more swimming pools, more imposing iceboxes, etc.

Mortimer Hayes, Pepsi Cola executive, has a one-man art show in New York. Do his paintings keep you young and fair and debonnaire?

De Gaulle is braver than we thought. He is now determined to make the French pay their taxes.

Howard K. Smith now has his own TV news program for which three cheers. He is close to best news telecaster in the country.

Manuel Urrutia, new president of Cuba is the little man in dark glasses who was around Woodside, L. I., delicatessen stores, newsstands and bus stops not long ago. He had been living there for some time, with few people having an idea their neighbor was to be Cuba's next president.

Power of Faith

By Howard Brodie

"Every time I hear of any child drowning I cry, for this could have been avoided if the youngster had been taught to swim."

These are the words of Gertrude Ederle, who 32 years ago became the first woman to swim the English Channel and now spends her time teaching children how to swim, trying to give back a measure of the triumph that life has given to her.

In her famous swim, training, courage and faith made her carry on when a storm suddenly erupted in the channel, churning up 15-foot waves. The red ball of warning went up for small craft. Her father bargained with the captain of the escort tug to continue. But her trainer asked her to give up.

"Quit?" she answered. "I came here to swim the channel, not to attempt it."

As the storm raged and fatigue racked her body, Gertrude Ederle silently prayed: "Please, God, if it be Thy will, give me the strength and courage to carry on."

Intraparty Strife

By David Lawrence

What the Republicans and Democrats in Congress have needed more than anything else is not a change in their leaders but a change in the attitude of their rank and file — a willingness to dedicate themselves to principle instead of yielding always to expediency.

Lawrence

This is asking a lot of the politician who depends for reelection on the ignorance of certain segments of the electorate or their supposed cupidity — favors granted or expected to be derived from other taxpayers' money.

The conflict, for instance, among the Republicans between the so-called "liberals" and the "conservatives," often referred to as the "old guard," is not what it appears to be on the surface.

It is really a contest for individual prestige and power. One must search hard to find any single principle that motivates any large number in either group.

The ouster of Joe Martin from the Republican leadership in the House was not the result of any differences in ideology. Rep. Halleck of Indiana is as much a conservative as former Speaker Martin but there has been an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with the Republican situation in the House even among conservatives.

They can't put their finger on the cause of it but undoubtedly it is based on chagrin and disappointment over the severe defeat suffered in the last election.

Perhaps it is the belated discovery that a party with no offense and simply a polite defense doesn't get anywhere in the battle ring of politics.

THE DEMOCRATS as a minority party have been good on the offense. They have not been encumbered with the problems of the party in power in the White House. They have had a free hand to attack without worrying about defense tactics.

They even haven't had to defend the Truman administration which was repudiated at the polls in the election of 1952—in fact, they have managed recently to restore it almost to sainthood due to the way the Republicans muffed the defense of their party's record in connection with the Goldfine-Adams case.

In the last two years, the Democrats have made excellent use of the investigating machinery from a political standpoint. They have attacked the Republicans for influencing the federal agencies but have managed to squelch any reprimand of the Democratic members of Congress who brazenly interfered and used influence with the federal agencies in behalf of their constituents.

Even the code of ethics recently announced by a Democratic-controlled committee exempts congressmen and senators from the same ethical obligations as would be imposed on officials of the federal agencies themselves. Yet the laws of the land say that the person who gives or attempts to give a bribe is as guilty of a crime as the official who receives it.

The Democrats, in the last two years, have done a very effective job of smearing the Eisenhower administration, especially in foreign affairs. Day after day has passed without any Republican defense or counterattack.

It is this daily publicity that forms the prejudices of the electorate long before the three months of any election campaign.

According to a Berlin dispatch this week from United Press International, the crisis in Berlin is related to a misconception in Moscow over the defeat of the Republicans in the last election.

It has been assumed in the Kremlin that the American people repudiated the Eisenhower leadership and that the Democrats are more friendly to Communist policies.

THIS IS an example of how attacks by the Democrats on the administration foreign policy have given an impression damaging to America abroad. The Republicans have done little to rebut these attacks, as they are not alert in the battle of the headlines.

Today the Republican party has a great chance for public service. It cannot win elections by dissension in its ranks. It must unite on basic priciples that conservatives and liberals can agree upon, instead of chasing Democratic rainbows.

The fundamental principles of sound and honest government are not difficult to set forth. Chief among the planks — and the party might well formulate a platform for this Congress—should be the protection of the dollar against those who would raid the federal treasury.

Another plank needed is on the protection of the public interest against strikes that damage the community. Some form of compulsory arbitration and the espousal of individual rights inside and outside unions are more pressing than some of the side issues in which the politicians become absorbed nowadays.

Important as 'civil rights" are to every section of the country where voting is concerned, just as important are the "civil rights" of the citizen who must today in most states accept a form of labor-union slavery as the price of a job in free American. The worker has lost his "civil rights" but there seems to be little worry about it in Congress. Racketeering in unions still flourishes.

It is a time for members of Congress to dedicate themselves to principle, with less and less emphasis on personal ambitions.

The Atom in Industry

By Raymond Moley

When David E. Lilienthal retired as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission in 1950, after four years in that post, he made a most significant statement.

He called for the removal of the heavy hand of government monopoly from this revolutionary form of human service. He advocated putting it "back on the American track" on which the motive power would be "the great prizes of satisfaction, prestige and profit that have always spurred men on in every other new chapter in American industrial history."

This considered statement of a man who not only had guided the development of atomic power for four years but had, for many years before that, been dominant in the great government operations of the GVA was nothing less than the judgment of the principle that in any industrial field the ultimately dominating agency of progress and service should be private.

GOVERNMENT may and should provide some research and, sparingly, financial assistance when an enterprise is new. But the aim always should be to move government out and permit the law of the free market to determine the future.

For government in business inevitably freezes what it controls into routine, stagnation and scarcity of production.

In his years as AEC chairman, Lewis Strauss followed this principle. Personal wrangles with the Joint Congressional Committee were mingled with the argument, but essentially his effort was to prevent a government monopoly which would have nationalized the production of electricity for generations to come.

In December, a notable announcement was made jointly by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company and Westinghouse which may precipitate a big debate on this subject.

Those two companies have been engaged since 1955 in making the necessary plans and preparations for a large-scale reactor of the "homogeneous" type. They have invested some millions of dollars of the companies' money in this enterprise.

They have decided to drop the project because of the many uncertainties that exist concerning that specific type of reactor, although they will continue with plans and developments of other reactors.

THIS HAS already been seized upon as an indication that private industry is not able or willing to continue with the building of large plants and that government must enter the field in a big way itself. There will be new pressure to pass something like the Gore bill, unsuccessfully pressed in the last Congress.

But failures of this kind are characteristic of all developing industries. They should not be interpreted as excuses for the government to rush in with its monopolistic power.

Consider, for example, the automobile industry, which represented a similar revolution in public service and in elevating the standard of living. Its history is strewn with failures but no effort was made by government to take it over on that account.

And so out of experiments and the wreckage of many hopes and the loss of many, many millions the automotive industry built for permanent success in a truly competitive private industry.

In the case of atomic power, the origins were in government support, but always with private companies, under contract, doing the job. This boon to humanity will go on, too, with the drive provided by pioneering companies.

Government has its part, but it should always maintain the goal that private companies under proper regulation should ultimately do the job.

A Few Improvements

By Truman Twill

People don't make New Year resolutions the way they used to. I know of no one who has been going about with a long face because he couldn't carry out a resolution to quit smoking, drinking, cursing, dawdling or doodling.

Everybody now keeps on doing whatever he was doing before, with no misgivings and no upsurgings of high purpose and moral rehabilitation.

But, oddly enough, I have had no trouble finding a hardy specimen who will quit trying to make himself agreeable in areas and circumstances where being agreeable is difficult.

I know this one fellow who has made a list of publicity chiselers he despises, including several ladies with overdeveloped glands and several gentlemen who like to get around and have the world know all about it.

This fellow insists he will read no newspaper or magazine that falls for this gamey variety of tripe and will sever the umbilical cord of any gawk box on which his pet peeves are mentioned or appear.

I know a fellow who, burdened by his reputation for being a good listener, has decided that in 1959 he will live this down if it means cultivating the art of falling asleep without toppling out of his chair.

He must have wasted two full weeks of his life last year — that would be 336 hours — listening to people talk about things that did not interest him and he thinks life is too short for that sort of thing. He points out in this connection that 336 hours is the equivalent of eight and half 40-hour weeks in which he could have been doing something remunerative, like going portal to portal.

I know a moderate smoker who says that from now on whenever a room gets so blue he cannot see across it he will step to the telephone and summon the fire department, on the sound supposition that where there is that much smoke there must be fire.

He explains he also intends to carry a plug of chewing tobacco with him and when other people start to live it up big with the weed their way he will ask for a dish with elevated sides to contain the backlash and will chew and spit, because that is his way of living it up big.

I know a man of inbred modesty who promises that he will send away to a theatrical supply firm and get an outfit of breakaway clothing before warm weather comes again.

Equipped with this sure - fire laugh-getter, he will drop in at one of those summer affairs where the women already have ditched most of their clothing and keep wondering why most men still are too modest to bare their hairy legs and peel down to their undershirts in warm weather.

When he has had all of this he can take, he will yank the string, or whatever makes breakaway clothing do what it is supposed to do and stand there in nothing whatsoever but a pair of shorts.

I am looking forward to a pretty fair new year, one way and another.

Space enthusiasts have the opportunity to view two space thrillers at the Ohio Theater Sunday through Tuesday. "From the Earth to the Moon," starring Joseph Cotton, George Sanders and Debra Paget, is the story of a man who develops a source of "infinite energy" called Power X which is capable of destroying an entire city at one blow.

The adventure involves his attempt to reach the moon to test the power on its barren wastes rather than on the earth.

"Queen of Outer Space" stars Zsa Zsa Gabor and Eric Fleming. The year is 1985 and three officers of a rocket squadron are assigned to ferry a famed scientist to a space station encircling the earth. During the flight, their rocket is damaged and they land on Venus, which is inhabited by an Amazon race whose masked queen is determined to destroy the earth.

Jayne Mansfield goes western in the comedy "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," which plays at the Ohio Wednesday through Saturday. It is the story of an Englishman who decides to try his luck in America. He is made sheriff of the little town he stops in and then gets mixed up with Indians and feuding ranchers and most dangerous of all, Miss Mansfield.

The second feature is "Enchanted Island," starring Dana Andrews and Jane Powell. Andrews and his companion escape from a whaling ship and settle down on an island in the South Pacific only to find that the natives are cannibals. Andrews falls in love with the princess of the tribe and is ready to stay on the island, but his companion is constantly seeking to escape.

ULANOVA DANCES 'GISELLE'. The famed Galina Ulanova dances the full-length classic "Giselle" in a full evening of ballet at the Palace Theater Wednesday. The Bolshoi Ballet was filmed just as they performed for Queen Elizabeth II on the stage of the Royal Opera House. Ulanova will dance excerpts from six other ballets in the feature-length movie.

—Palace—

Playing Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace Theater will be "The Restless Years" with John Saxon and Sandra Dee and "Appointment with a Shadow" with George Nader and Brian Keith.

"The Restless Years" is the story of a young girl trying to find her place in a small community which whispers behind her back that she is illegitimate. Trouble doesn't really start until she steps into the lead of a school play and the girl she replaces becomes jealous.

In "Appointment With a Shadow," George Nader stars as a top reporter gone alcoholic who is trying to redeem himself. Through his girlfriend, he makes arrangements to photograph exclusively an arrest to be made by his girl friend's brother, a police lieutenant. Everything goes well until the criminal momentarily outsmarts both the police and the photographer.

Wednesday only, a complete evening of ballet will be featured at the Palace. The famous Bolshoi Ballet group of Moscow was filmed on the stage of the Royal Opera House Covent Garden in London and performs on the screen some of the dances just as they were performed for Queen Elizabeth II.

Galina Ulanova dances the full-length classic "Giselle" and excerpts from six other ballets, such as "The Dying Swan" "Faust" and others.

Opening Thursday and playing through Saturday will be "The Fearmakers" and "The Gun Runners."

Based on a story by Hemingway, "The Gun Runners" is the story of man living in the Florida Keys, with his wife, who rent out a boat to ardent fisherman. The man agrees to ferry a stranger to Havana. The stranger turns out to be a gun runner selling arms to the revolutionists in Cuba. Audie Murphy plays the boat-owner who sets out to thwart the ruthless stranger. Eddie Albert, Patricia Owens and Everett Sloane also star.

In "The Fearmakers" Dana Andrews plays a captain returned from the Korean war preparing to take up his place as a partner in a Washington, D. C., public relations firm. He discovers many changes in the firm's policy and soon discovers he is working for a fearmaking organization.

Beggar Is Loaded

NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe beggars can't always be choosers, but Patrick Creel, 54, apparently was begging by choice.

When police arrested Creel for panhandling Friday, he was wearing two jackets, two overcoats and carrying $5,450 in his pockets.

The cash was in eight frayed paper bags, wrapped in shoelaces. Fifty dollars were in silver.

Creel was ordered to Bellevue Hospital for mental observation.

Inmate of Local Institution Seeks Release on Writ

A petition seeking release under a writ of habeas corpus was filed Friday in the Third District Court of Appeals by Duane Douglas Brown, 27, a Marion Correctional Institution inmate, Common Pleas Court officials reported today.

Brown contends in his petition that he is serving sentences on two charges which he understood were to be reduced to one if he pleaded guilty to both counts at the time of his trial.

The petition records that Brown was arrested Nov. 9, 1957, in Toledo on charges of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and theft of the vehicle.

According to the petition, he waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to the Lucas County grand jury which returned an indictment against him.

Brown alleges he entered a plea of not guilty to both charges on Dec. 3, 1957, in Lucas County Common Pleas Court, but on Dec. 18, 1957, changed his plea to guilty as charged.

He was sentenced to the Ohio Pententiary and was transferred from there to the Marion institution on July 9, 1958.

The plaintiff contends that he pleaded guilty to the charges with the understanding that he would be sentenced on one count, the other being dropped.

However, his journal entry made no such stipulation with the result, he alleges, that he was sentenced to 2 to 40 years on both counts, instead of 1-20 years on one of the charges.

Brown alleges he is being illegally held, having been sentenced without due process of law.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flareups but I don't think we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a foot locker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ash trays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX.

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep you lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

Scorned Daughters

Dear Ann: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his 7-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof.

I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes.

Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude.—MOTHER OF THREE FATHERLESS CHILDREN.

-:-

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

Double Exposure

Dear Ann: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted.

He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again.

He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you think I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN.

-:-

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone"? And exactly what would you be showing them — that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Marion Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SPITTING ON A STONE?
Ever try spitting on a stone to ease pain? Sounds foolish, nowadays. But a long time ago folks actually used this "remedy." We're lucky to be living in this age of modern medicine. Medical science has given us many wonderful pain relievers and other reliable, effective drugs. However, it's still not wise to use any medication indiscriminately. When you don't feel up to par, ask your physician's advice first. Then, if he prescribes medication, come to us. We'll fill his prescription promptly and carefully.

Here's How

New Ideas Materialize In 'Room of Tomorrow'

By The Associated Press

The room of tomorrow is closing in on today.

Interior Designer Henry End, member of the American Institute of Decorators, illustrated the point in "The Room of Tomorrow" at the 1958 New York Hotel Show.

"I had a feeling when I was decorating the room that I'd better hurry or else some of my good features would be outmoded," says End, of Miami, Los Angeles, New York.

—:—

WHILE HIS ideas are aimed at hotel or motel owners, many could be applied in modern homes. There is for instance the bedroom that becomes a living room when you close your eyes for a second. Studio lounges slip into walls at the turn of a switch, lighting becomes heightened or dimmed by turning a wall dial, television works from remote controls.

The lighting eliminates extra tables and lamps. The old-fashioned dumbwaiter has been electronified, and brings baggage or breakfast from the main floor to your bedroom swiftly and silently.

"Other wonderful features are chairs that never need reupholstering. The process involves material welded to foam rubber, End explains.

—:—

THE BATHROOM is Roman American and walled in marble-like vinyl. The double wash basins are turquoise. Light emanates from small ½-inch circles integrated into a luminous plastic ceiling, offering an even light. The mirror that separates the two wash basins has an inner light that provides even more illumination.

"One very practical point for women is the double shower head," says End. "This bathroom has two, one lower than the other so the lady of the house can take a shower without soaking her hair."

End advises women planning new homes to investigate all the ideas they can muster up.

"Even some ideas that seem frighteningly expensive must be evaluated by the end result: Will it save on repairs, cover up scarred or scratched walls as in the case of plasticized board for walls, give handsomer effects, save time and maintenance? These are questions the homemaker should ask herself," says End.

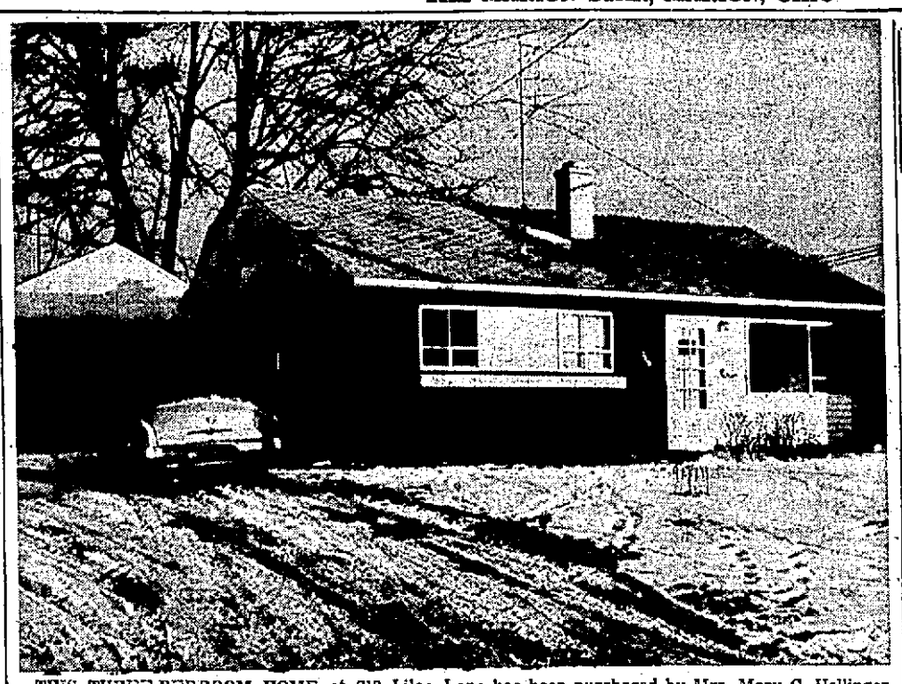
NAREB Executive To Speak at Local Board's Luncheon

Richard H. Eggers, field executive of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will speak Wednesday noon at a luncheon meeting of the Marion Real Estate Board in the YMCA.

Richard Eggers

Harry Kaelber, president of the local board, said Mr. Eggers will be in Marion Wednesday primarily to discuss board administration and real estate problems with the officers.

Mr. Eggers works out of the national association's headquarters in Chicago. Prior to his service with the national association, he was a national field representative for a welfare organization. During World War II he was in the Navy submarine service.



THIS THREE-BEDROOM HOME at 718 Lilac Lane has been purchased by Mrs. Mary C. Hollinger of Caledonia from Mr. and Mrs. Dale McCombs, now of Mansfield. It has a glass tile bath, modern kitchen and dining area, large living room and a garage. Kenneth Patrick of the Hoch Real Estate Agency represented both parties in the transaction.

Children Like Do-It-Yourself Puppet Stage

An imaginative youngster, a few hand puppets and a five-foot home puppet theater can provide "live" entertainment for the whole family. It's a kind of do-it-yourself TV.

With the large variety of hand puppets available today, the youngsters can put on a continuous show with clowns, villains, heros, heroines, bears, mice, and many other animals. The theater is such a simple project you still have time to build one before the holidays. It's one gift that won't lose its appeal the day after Christmas.

For the performance, the puppeteer kneels down behind the theater and extends the puppets above the edge of the stage. A small shelf is used for storage of props and extra hand puppets.

Kindergarten and elementary school teachers who have used the small theaters say they encourage creativity and self-expression. Children can write plays and take turns with the production, or they can improvise "plots" as they go along. Everybody enjoys cheering the heroine and hissing the villain.

The youngsters also can use their imagination in painting the theater and decorating it with masks, stars or other colorful insignia. Crepe paper or bright cloth can be used for the curtains.

The unit is built with a hinged arrangement so it can be folded flat and stored away when the theater season is temporarily over. It can be made from one panel of one-quarter-inch fir plywood, a material which is available in almost any lumber yard. The theater is 52 inches high, 36 inches wide, and 15 inches deep. It has a 28 by 16-inch stage opening.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The first traffic deaths of the year came Friday in Hamilton and adjoining Butler Counties.

In Butler County, Jerome Harris, 5, was struck and killed by a car near his Hamilton home.

Charged With Murder

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A first-degree murder charge has been filed against John H. Ferguson, 41, in the fatal shooting of his mother - in - law, Mrs. Gertrude Woods, 56, on Thursday. His wife and another man were wounded when, police said, Ferguson went on a shooting spree in a jealous rage.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The time has passed when people looked down on the house with a crawl-space beneath it instead of a full basement or cellar.

Actually it makes good sense to build a house over a crawl space instead of over a cellar which local conditions indicate might be full of water during the wet seasons. Builders have come to the realization that it is particularly suited to low-lying areas where the normal water-table is only a few feet below ground and where a full basement or cellar would involve waterproofing or the installation of a sump pump.

Nevertheless the crawl - space, like everything else, can present problems to the homeowner unless it is built according to a few simple rules. The first of these is that it must have a substantial concrete base, otherwise dampness will be close to the house floors.

Secondly, it must have good ventilation through vents or standard cellar windows which can be closed in winter, otherwise there will be cold floors above it. In the third place, it should have lights so that water-main, heating and plumbing pipes can be seen and repairs made if necessary.

The fourth essential is that there be at least enough head room to enable a man to move about in a crouched position.

Owners might find that the noise of water rushing through the water main in a crawl space is annoying. This can be remedied by covering the pipe with ordinary pipe covering.

First Aid to the Ailing House

By ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We have a new stucco house. Mud has been splashed on the sides and discolored it. What would remove the stains?

A: It may be difficult to remove stains unless sandblasted by a professional house-cleaning contractor. But first try scrubbing with hot water and hand soap containing sand, using a stiff brush. Rinse well with clear water afterwards. To prevent future re-soiling, I recommend putting down a concrete walk around the house. Planting shrubbery close to the house will make the discoloration less visible.

Q: Please repeat your previous instructions for burning a tree stump, packing with a saltpeter mixture.

A: First be sure the tree stump is so located as to be no fire hazard for nearby buildings or vegetation if it is burned. Bore several large vertical holes into the stump, the full length of the auger. Then fill holes with saltpeter (niter; nitrate of potash) and pour in hot water. As the holes empty, refill them several times. When the wood is impregnated with saltpeter (this may require several weeks), build a fire on and around the stump. Kerosene can be used instead and is considerably quicker.

Q: I acquired an old wooden salad chopping bowl, but did not feel I could use it until thoroughly cleaned. I washed the bowl in sudsy water and bleached it with a household bleach. Now I'm wondering if it can be used for chopping vegetables. If so, is any treatment necessary before putting it to use?

A: I definitely wouldn't use the bowl now for foodstuffs. It would be too much of a risk that the bleach, which may have penetrated into the wood, might be absorbed by the food. Only thing to do is to use the bowl for decoration. You might try coating it with a thin coat of pure fresh, white shellac, thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol.

Q: How can I get rust spots off a cement driveway?

A: Dissolve one part sodium citrate in six parts of water and six parts of commercial glycerin. Mix part of this with enough powdered whiting, or other absorbing powder to form a paste. Spread a thick layer over the spots. When dry, replace with fresh paste or moisten with the remaining liquid. A week or longer may be required for complete removal of the spots.

Q: The floor of our basement recreation room is wood, with linoleum on top. We are getting a damp smell and wonder if the linoleum is at fault.

A: More probable is that ground dampness is working through the concrete and, having no place to evaporate, works into the wooden floor which might be the cause of the odor of dampness. More seriously, it could affect the wood, even causing it to rot. I recommend your taking up one section of the floor and examining it. If the wood is in bad shape it may need replacement. Certainly, it should at least be thoroughly treated with wood preservatives (the odorless kind).

Last week the receipts (for a 4 day period) totaled 33,480 head and were 51,580 a year ago.

Prices paid for market hogs averaged 25 cents per 100 lb less than last week, at $17.75 per 100 lb.

Sow prices were mostly unchanged for the week, with most sows priced at $14.50-15.00. Heavy sows were generally in poor demand and were priced as low as $12.00.

805 Firms in Business

Statistics released today by Ray J. Price, district manager of the Columbus office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., show that there are now 805 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers in Marion County, including 662 such firms in the city of Marion. The figures were obtained from a physical count of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for November, 1958.

The book, lists only manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops and stock and real estate brokers. Thus, the figures for businesses in Marion County would actually be higher than the 805 quoted.

Building Permits In the Township

The following permits were issued in Marion Township during the week:

Richardson Builders Service, 199 Johnson St., residence at the corner of Wilshire and Siesta drives.

C. A. Haines, 719 Forest Lawn Dr., residence at 792 Cambridge Ave.

Sam Dawson led San Jose State's 1958 football team in yards gained with 339 for a 5.9 average and in scoring with 26 points.

Hoffa Drops Plans To Hold Special Teamsters Convention

Move Made After Judge Delays Order

Union President Cites 90-Day Rule; Parley In 6 Months Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa is canceling plans for a special union convention aimed at getting rid of court-appointed monitors.

Hoffa announced the cancellation Friday shortly after a federal judge postponed issuing an order that would arm the monitors with power to compel Hoffa to obey reform recommendations.

This order, approved informally last Dec. 11 by U.S. District Judge F. Dickenson Letts, also would bar Hoffa from calling a union convention until Letts said he could.

Scheduled March 16-18

In canceling the convention, which had been scheduled for March 16-18 in Chicago, Hoffa said the Teamsters constitution required delegates to be chosen 90 days in advance.

"Because of pending litigation as to whether the Teamsters can have such a convention or not this would make the March convention impossible," Hoffa told a reporter.

This was a reference to the court order, initiated by the monitors, which Letts was to have signed Friday. The judge postponed the signing pending the outcome of action before the U.S. Court of Appeals aimed at letting the union convention go on as scheduled.

May Meet in Six Months

In Chicago, Atty. Godfrey P. Schmidt, a member of the three-man monitoring board, told newsmen there might be a Teamsters convention and election of officers in about six months.

"Then," he said, "we'll get rid of James R. Hoffa and all his cohorts."

Hoffa's aim is to hold a special convention and be elected again without question. This automatically would end the monitorship.

The monitor board was created by Letts under a court compromise of a lawsuit filed by a rank-and-file Teamsters group who charged that Hoffa had rigged his election as union president.

Under the compromise, Hoffa was permitted to take office provisionally under guidance of the monitors.

Two Marion Residents Hurt in Ripley Accident

George Frank and his daughter, Mrs. Isabelle Sutherland, of 490 E. Church St. returned home Friday after suffering injuries in an automobile accident while they were en route to Florida for a vacation.

Friends of the family reported today the accident occurred on Rt. 62 at the edge of Ripley, O., about noon Thursday when the auto driven by Mrs. Sutherland skidded on a patch of ice and careened into a telephone pole.

Mr. Frank was hospitalized overnight at Maysville, Ky., near Ripley and was released Friday. Carl Danner of Marion brought them back to Marion.

Both Mr. Frank and his daughter are under the care of doctors here. Their auto was considerably damaged in the mishap.

ADDRESS CORRECTED

The address of Glendon W. Kight of 256½ W. Columbia St. was listed incorrectly in Friday's Star. He was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of auto theft.

Practical Nurses Cited for Service

A nurse must learn to adjust herself to any situation in working with people, Mrs. Minnie Weigel of Mansfield told 14 students in the School of Practical Nursing Friday night during a public program at General Hospital.

The president of the Practical Nurse Association of Ohio, Inc., pointed out that practical nurses today are performing a great service in relieving the nurse shortage.

She outlined the history of the state association, noting it was established 12 years ago to promote the welfare of practical nurses. From an initial membership of 12, the organization has grown to 4,300 members, Mrs. Weigel said.

The candlelight program in the public health wing auditorium recognized the 14 pupils who will begin clinical training Monday upon having completed their first phase of instruction.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Stewart Labat, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Miss Sandi Gaver, Miss Janet Burch and Miss Ruthe Leonhart, members of a vocal trio, presented selections.

Appropriations Among Matters Facing Council

Marion City Council will be faced with 15 pieces of legislation, including the annual appropriations ordinance, in its regular meeting next week. Council is scheduled to meet briefly Monday night and then recess until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

In addition to the appropriations ordinance, the councilmen will give a second reading to an ordinance proposing to combine the city and sanitary engineer jobs. Also on the agenda are ordinances proposing zoning changes in the vicinity of the McMillen Feed Mills, some resolutions approving planning commission actions and some others approving recent appointments by Mayor Wendell L. Strong.

Plans to recess the Monday night meeting to Tuesday night were announced Friday. Purpose of the action is to permit Democratic members of council to attend the inauguration of Gov.-elect Michael DiSalle in Columbus Monday.

The appropriations ordinance to be considered calls for new record high city and General Hospital expenditures of $2,695,423, about $152,673 higher than the first-of-year appropriations ordinance adopted last January for 1958 operations.

The ordinance proposing to combine the city engineer and sanitary engineer positions into one job and to raise the city engineer's salary to the level of the sanitary engineer's salary was proposed by Mayor Strong. In addition to the engineering department changes, it also proposes some salary changes for the city hall janitor and his assistant.

After council failed to adopt the ordinance at its Dec. 22 meeting, Mayor Strong said that he would withdraw the proposal to combine the engineering jobs.

Two ordinances propose to rezone some property adjacent to the McMillen Feed Mills plant for industrial use and another zoning change ordinance proposes to rezone a property at Silver and Edwards St. from residential to commercial.

Other legislation listed on the agenda is as follows:

An ordinance authorizing the hospital board of governors to sign a contract with the county welfare department to care for indigent patients at the rate of $20 a day.

An ordinance to vacate an alley running east and west between Jefferson St and Grand Ave. north of E. George St.

A resolution directing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of curbs and gutters on Patterson St. from Quarry to George.

Two resolutions approving actions of the planning commission in granting permission to Harold and Betty Bell of 357 Franconia Ave. and Ruth Powell of 675 Wood St. to use their residential properties for business purposes.

A resolution authorizing the Ohio Edison Co. to install street lights on Underwood Ave.

Resolutions confirming the appointment of John Makeever to the hospital board of governors and Dr. Frederick T. Merchant to the city health board.

A resolution commending Robert A. Kelly for his services on the park board.

And an ordinance accepting the plat of the National Development Corp. for the Fair Park Sixth Addition.

Sickles' Conviction Upheld by Judges

The Third District Court of Appeals has affirmed the June 1957 conviction of 32-year-old James P. Sickles of Newark, Clerk of Courts Margaret Howser reported today.

Sickles, serving a 4 to 43-year sentence on charges of shooting with intent to kill, breaking and entering, carrying a concealed weapon and possession of burglary tools, appealed his conviction last March.

His attorney, Miss Virginia Weiss of Newark, presented the appeal before the appellate judges during their last session in Marion on Sept. 24.

The appellate court's ruling was received here Friday afternoon, Miss Howser said.

Sickles was charged following a break-in at Carl's Auto Parts Warehouse the night of Feb. 13, 1957. He was shot five times by police during a running gun battle in which Patrolman Marshall Wilds was wounded once.

Miss Weiss based her appeal on 19 alleged irregularities concerning identification, prosecution and trial of her client.

Seal Proceeds Reach $12,860

Tuberculosis, Health Group Hears Reports

A report that $12,860 has been contributed to date in the Christmas seal sale drive was given by Dr. Frederick T. Merchant when the monthly executive meeting of the Marion County Tuberculosis and Health Association was held Friday noon at Hotel Harding.

Dr. Merchant explained that unless the $2,139 balance of the $15,000 goal is forthcoming by March 31, certain phases of the local association's program may have to be curtailed during the coming year.

The seal sale chairman noted that contributions still may be mailed to the organization.

Mrs. Paul Knauss gave a report on the semi-annual meeting of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health Association, held recently in Columbus.

Statistics concerning recent activity showed that Christmas gifts were sent to the seven county residents confined to tuberculosis hospitals. Eighteen probable TB victims visited the chest clinic at General Hospital during December and a total of 28 X-rays were read.

Herbert Huckenburg, new field counselor for the area, was welcomed as a guest. He complimented members of the association for an outstanding job of community service.

Rotary Will Hear Official of Agency

Walter Seifert, public relations executive for Byer and Bowman Agency of Columbus, will speak to members of the Marion Rotary Club at their meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

He will talk on "Attitudes Are Ammunition" and will cover some new slants on what he considers the most important problem of the age: "How to put the problems of life in their proper perspective."

Born at Lakewood, Mr. Seifert is a graduate of Kent State University and received his master's degree from the University of Michigan. Although he has been in the public relations field for 10 years, he has tackled several other fields. He spent two years as a night police reporter in Akron; two years as author of a daily fishing column published in 165 newspapers; two years as a college philosophy professor in Arizona, two as author of a syndicated inspirational column, four as a writer in Bermuda and two as an officer of the United States Navy.

He has also done public relations work in New York and Detroit, as well as Columbus.

Appeal Issued For Donations At Blood Bank

With Marion County's supply of blood far short of the need, Red Cross officials today issued an appeal for donors to sign up for the Wednesday visit of the bloodmobile to the Red Cross chapter house on Mt. Vernon Ave.

The appalling need for the precious life serum is spelled out in the fact that 1,768 pints were donated during the year against 2,412 used at Marion General Hospital. This left a deficit of 644 pints.

Red Cross officials pointed out that a new year brings new opportunities to replenish the low supply of bood and to guarantee that city and county residents will meet the demand for the serum at General Hospital without relying on outside sources.

The bloodmobile will remain here Thursday for a visit at Whirlpool Corp. The quota both days will be a minimum of 160 pints.

Hours for collections at the chapter house will be 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. Special parking facilities and babysitting services will be provided.

Donors are urged to sign up in advance to avoid unnecessary waiting in line, Miss Lillian Plack, executive secretary, noted. Appointments for the Wednesday visit may be made by telephoning 2-1653.

If persons are unable to make advance apopintments, they are welcome to walk in anytime during the day.

Hours for the Whirlpool visit Thursday will be 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Auto Accidents

Five minor no-injury traffic accidents were investigated Friday and today by Marion police. One accident at 9:56 a.m. Friday at the intersection of N. State and E. Fairground streets involved cars driven by Frederick Bruat, 35, of near Bryan and Roy E. Adams, 52, of 188 Elk St. Bruat was eastbound on E. Fairground St. and went through the stoplight, crashing into the right side of the northbound Adams car, police said. Bruat was arrested on a charge of failure to heed a stoplight.

Another accident, in the 200 block of Summit St. at 2:09 a.m. today, involved a car driven by Donald A. Wilson, 21, of 772 Richmond Ave. Wilson's car went out of control on the icy pavement and struck a power pole.

The other three accidents in the city caused less than $100 total damage, police estimated.

Pleasant Takes First Place in Marion County Cage Strife

Elyria Team Scores 51-39 Victory Over Harding

Presidents' Hopes For Crown Ended

By JOHN SHORT

Elyria High School wiggled off the hook in the closing minutes here Friday night to clip Harding 51-39 in a Buckeye Conference cage battle.

It was the 10th win of the season without a loss for Coach Dale Reichenbach's Pioneers and most Elyria fans agreed it was the closest call of the year.

The loss, third in league play, all but ended Harding's hopes for the Buckeye Conference basketball crown. The Prexies hold conference wins over Findlay and Fremont but lost to Lorain, Sandusky and Elyria in first round play.

—:—

COACH DON Knodel revamped his starting lineup and the Prexies responded with one of their two top performances of the year. Moved into starting berths for the Elyria tilt were three sophomores, Dan Wendell, Paul Cressor and Dave Grumblatt. Knodel had nothing but praise for all three after the contest.

"I don't feel so bad after a loss like this one," the Harding coach said. "But I just can't take one like we had against Ashland."

In the Ashland defeat, Harding was charged with 22 turnovers. In the Elyria loss, the Prexies cut that total to 16, including 10 fumbles, 5 bad passes and one traveling infraction.

Bob Middleton shoved Harding into an early 2-0 lead but Sam Davis scored on a jump shot and then added a free throw to put Elyria ahead to stay. Mike Chamberlain hit from the corner to get Harding back into the game at 5-4 but from there the Elyrians, sparked by Davis and Bill Gast, raced to a 15-6 lead at the end of the first period.

THE PRESIDENTS rallied early in the second period. Middleton popped in a layup and Chamberlain connected from the corner to make the count 18-10. Then George Kirk pumped in two straight field goals and Jim Maginn added a free throw to put Harding back into contention at 18-15. A three-point play by Jim Jones, however, got Elyria back on the path and the Pioneers ended the half with a 23-15 bulge.

Harding managed only three points in the first three minutes of the third period but then Kirk jerked his mates back to life with three foul shots and a field goal and Harding trailed only 28-23. A technical foul called against Reichenbach appeared to give Harding new life but the Pioneers scored four straight points as the quarter ran out to carry a 33-23 spread into the final eight minutes of play.

Harding was able to move within six points of the lead at 41-35 with 1:48 showing on the clock but a foul against Davis ended the last threat. The Elyria ace dropped in two shots to cinch the verdict for his mates.

Kirk, one of the regular Harding starters replaced for the Elyria game, came off the bench to spark the Prexy attack. He finished with 15 points while Chamberlain had 6. Davis was the big gun in Elyria's attack with 19 while Gast finished with 11.

"We gave them a good ball game," Knodel said. "Our boys really played their hearts out."

THE PREXIES connected on 15 of 47 attempts from the field for a 32 per cent shooting average. They hit on only 9 of 20 from the foul line.

The Harding reserves dropped a 57-45 verdict in the preliminary contest. The Vice Presidents battled the Elyrians to a 9-9 deadlock in the first stanza but trailed 29-20 at the half and 50-28 at the end of the three quarters.

Pete Porietis led the attack for Coach Al Beach's squad with 20 points. Ned Porter and Terry Hoffman each had 8. Johnson scored 15 to lead the winners with Roberts collecting 12 and Stark 10.

Harding will invade Worthington tonight in a bid to snap its three-game losing streak. The Presidents will be shooting for their sixth victory against four setbacks.

Irish Down Crestline in 69-64 Win

Marion Catholic's hardcourt squad, looking for its first cage triumph of the season, finally found it Friday night, beating Crestline 69-64.

The Irish of Coach Ray Robbins, after seven straight setbacks, in addition to a pair of holiday carnival losses, finally came to the fore on the Bulldogs' floor, handing Mentor John Hughes' buckos their third defeat in eight games.

Man of the hour in the Catholic victory was Paul Hurney, sophomore forward who rolled in 13 goals and four free throws for 30 points. It was the best point total tallied by an Irish cager in some time.

And Hurney had plenty of help, as the Robbinsmen, at long last, evidenced the kind of cage know-how characteristic of Robbins-coached teams.

Rish Collects 11

Tom Rish, 6-6 center, hit for 11 points, Dennis Dickerson got 8, Ted Anderson 6, Harry Traugh and Dennis Blue both 5 and Duane Isom 4 to account for the 69 Irish points. The final Green and White total was 13 points more than they had scored in any other game this season.

It was a sparkling second half that turned the tide in the Robbinsmen's favor.

At quarter's end, Crestline was ahead 14-13. And, at intermission, were atop a 29-28 total. Going into the finale, however, the Irish were leading 49-46 and though the count was subsequently knotted at 50-50 and 52-52, Marion Catholic was equal to the task to clinch the decision.

At game's end, the Irish had accounted for 28 goals and 13 free throws. Their field average of 51 per cent and the 38 per cent they garnered at the foul line was easily their best efforts to date. Crestline was held to 24 completions from the field, but lofted in 16 points via the bonus circle.

High point man for Crestline was Jerry Harbaugh, whose 10 goals and 5 free throws accounted for 25 points. Nik Pry hit for 19, while Bob Fisher got 7.

Crestline took over the lead late in the finale, 57-56, but was unable to hang onto it, as Dickerson and Anderson goaled for the Irish. With 22 seconds left to play, Marion had a 65-64 lead. Then came the drama.

Score 4 Foul Shots

Hurney, fouled, stepped to the line and dropped in both chances, hiking the Irish margin to 67-64. Only :07 showed on the clock when Isom was fouled. He, too, came through in perfect style, both shots dropping through the net to give the Robbinsmen a 69-64 lead and the game.

Robbins' only regret was that "the game couldn't have been played before a home crowd." But, he voiced complete satisfaction with his cagers, observing that they "really outdid themselves."

In the reserve fracas, Crestline took a 52-20 win from the Irish frosh. Tim Peacock and Jim Rish led the Irish with 10 and 9 points, while Gottfried got 13 for Crestline.

Cepada Unanimous Pick For NL's Rookie Honors

BOSTON (AP) —Orlando Cepeda, heavy-hitting first baseman for the San Francisco Giants, today was named the National League's rookie of the year for 1958.

The 21-year-old Puerto Rican was a unanimous choice for freshman honors in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America.

Cepeda, a husky 6-2, 200-pounder from Ponce, P. R., won a berth with the Giants last spring after a sensational 1957 season with Minneapolis of the American Assn.

Cepeda gathered the votes on all 21 ballots counted under the supervision of BBWAA secretary-treasurer Hy Hurwitz. Three writers in each of the National League cities were eligible to vote but three ballots were missing.

The son of a former Puerto Rico League player, Pedro Cepeda, the young San Francisco slugger kept the Giants in the thick of the pennant race until late in the season.

Cepeda, who bats and throws right, wound up with a .312 batting average, seventh in the league, 25 homers and 96 runs batted in. He had 309 total bases, including 38 doubles and four triples, to rank fourth behind Ernie Banks, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron in that department.

Cardington Defeats Richwood 76-59 in Conference Struggle

RICHWOOD — Cardington turned back the Richwood Tiger cage quintet here Friday night in a Mid Ohio Conference fray 76-59.

The Pirates managed to slip slowly out of range of the Tigers after having been tied 18-18 in the first quarter and leading only by two points 37-35 at the half time intermission. From the second half to the finish Cardington gradually hiked its margin to 17 points.

Murphy had 26 points to receive top honors for the Pirates. Crum and Curts had 16 and 18 points apiece. Richwood's Steve Robinson was the Tigers' high man with 18 points. Roger McDaniel helped close the gap by scoring 14 points.

As a result of Friday's action, Pleasant leads the league at the halfway point with five wins and no losses. Prospect, Green Camp and Ridgedale are tied for second with four wins and one loss while New Bloomington, Caledonia, Claridon and Martel all have won two and lost three. Waldo and LaRue are tied for last place with five setbacks.

Pleasant Leads League

Pleasant ran its victory streak to 12 straight Friday night with a 75-40 victory at Caledonia. The win boosted Coach Stan Kirby's Pandas into the No. 1 spot in the race for the Marion County League championship and the Marion Star Trophy.

Green Camp clipped Prospect in an overtime battle to aid the Pandas in their title drive. The Pandas can all but ease Prospect from the race next Friday when the two teams battle at the Coliseum.

The Pandas jumped out front early and were never threatened by the Caledonia squad. By the end of the first period, Kirby's crew was leading 13-6 and they held a 32-16 margin at the halftime break. They increased their margin to 55-32 during third quarter action.

Jeff Peacock fired in 21 points to lead the Pleasant attack while Larry Mahaffey added 14 and Bill Baker netted 13. John Detwiler and Brad Kile each scored 8 to lead the Scots.

The Pandas finished the game with a 40 per cent average from the floor and connected on 19 of 27 foul shots for a 70 per cent mark. Caledonia fired at a 30 per cent clip from the floor and added 6 of 12 free throws.

Pleasant's reserve team recorded a 54-31 victory in the preliminary contest. Jerry Newell collected 19 points to lead the Pandas' offense. Gene Beers was high for the losers with 10.

Caledonia will travel to Iberia tonight for a non-league game. It will meet New Bloomington next Friday.

Panthers Upset Bulldogs

Exploding for 20 points in the last quarter, Green Camp's Panthers forced injury riddled Prospect into overtime play and then handed the Bulldogs their first loss of the season 59 to 55 at Prospect Friday night.

Trailing by 14 points, 31-17, just after the start of the third period, the victors started a rally which gained momentum in the late stages of the game and was topped off when Loy Crum hit a long jump shot to tie the score at 53-53 with 28 seconds left in regulation play.

Then in the three minute overtime period, Flach and Dick Bates, who led the Panther attack with 17 markers apiece, combined to spell doom for Prospect hopes by scoring all six of Green Camp's overtime points. Flach hit a fielder and two charity tosses and Bates added a two-pointer. Two free throws by Jerry Remlinger accounted for Prospect's last two tallies.

The Bulldogs, who missed injured starters Dave Lauer, 6-2, and Howard Moser, 6-3, took command of their taller opponents in the second quarter after the teams had scored nine points apiece in the opening frame.

Uncovering a possible new scoring threat in Remlinger, 6-0 sophomore, the Bulldogs outscored the winners 20-8 in the second quarter and took a 29-17 lead at halftime. Remlinger scored eight points in the second period, playing his first long duration of varsity ball to date.

By third quarter's end the Bulldogs still led by eight, 41-33 mostly through the efforts of pivotman Tom Rodgers who led both teams with 20 points.

In the final quarter, the Panthers who had been cold from the floor through the first three stanzas began to find the range, and combining this with their superior heights under the boards, they worked away at the score until they tied it up at 51-all.

With 1:21 left, Remlinger hit a bucket to put the Bulldogs in front by two, but then Crum connected to tie it up and send the fray into overtime. Remlinger followed Rodgers in the Prospect scoring column with 15 tallies in three periods of play.

The score left both teams with 4 and 1 records in county play, while Green Camp is now 9 and 2 and Prospect is 10 and 1 for overall season play.

The reserve tilt went to the Prospect futures 62-38 with Dick Howser and Jud Hecker each collecting 15 for the winners. Sheppard led the losers with 12.

Marion Bowlers To Aid March of Dimes Drive

The Marion Men's City Bowling Association today announced plans for a March of Dimes bowling tournament at the three recreation centers here.

The tournament, in conjunction with the March of Dimes campaign, will be held at the Palace, Marion and Plaza bowling alleys. It will be based on the number of pins over average and the winner at each establishment will be awarded a trophy. Each bowler will pay a $1 entry fee.

Participants will bowl in their regular leagues. The tourney will be held from Jan. 12 through Jan. 25 at the Palace and Marion alleys. Due to the fact that new leagues being formed at the Plaza Lanes will not have enough games rolled on which to establish an average, the tourney there will be held early in February.

Kenton Board Retains Same Officers in '59

KENTON—The Kenton Board of Education met Wednesday night for the annual organization meeting. After the monthly bills amounting to $8,077, were paid, reorganization was held. Members were elected to serve in the same capacity as last year. Lester A. Ward is president; James Allen, vice president and John Jester, purchasing agent and member of the athletic board. Chandos Printz was employed as clerk of the board.

The board approved the appropriation resolution as prepared by the clerk. The measure is similar to last year's The board employed Miss Elizabeth Freer as art instructor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Nina Rhodes. Miss Freer is a graduate of Ohio University with a bachelor's degree in fine arts. She is a native of Bellefontaine.

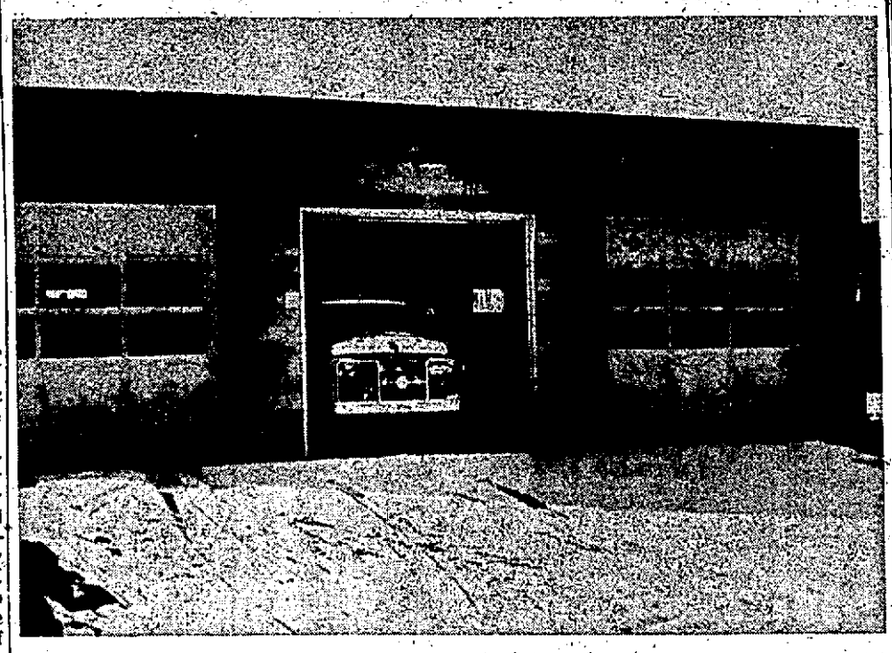
The board was notified by the Architects Strong, Strong and Strong that the Ford-Libbey-Owens Glass Co. is having the glass in the multi-purpose rooms of the schools replaced. The glass originally installed has cracked in various places. Heating engineer Fred Spencer is supplying an additional set of controls for the furnace rooms.

Sub-zero temperatures has created the necessity for two additional heating units in the shop areas at the high school. An electric heating unit has been installed in the conference room in the vocational agriculture department. The board decided to replace the welding machine with a new machine. Glass protective shields have been installed on the serving counters in the cafeteria to insure more sanitary conditions.

Wanted in Robbery

CLEVELAND (AP)—The FBI is sending a bank robbery warrant and other papers to Las Vegas for the return of William Charles Wiltshire, 43-year-old ex-convict accused in the $11,007 holdup of a Cleveland Trust Co. branch bank Nov. 11. The FBI said the holdup occurred just 13 days after Wiltshire, who has a record of 61 arrests in a dozen states, was paroled from Leavenworth Federal Prison. He had been sentenced to Leavenworth for a 1951 department store holdup in Washington, D. C. The FBI said $2,300 in currency taken from the Cleveland Trust was found when Wiltshire was arrested.

Caledonia Fire Station Put to Use



NEW CALEDONIA Fire Station. Members of the Caledonia Volunteer Fire Department have completed their new fire station on High St. and have moved three pieces of equipment into it. Included is the new fire engine purchased by the Claridon Township for use by the voluteers.

The township in November 1957 approved a 1.3 mill levy to pay for the purchase of the truck. At the same time, residents of the village passed a 1.5 mill levy to pay for purchase of a site and erection of the fire house.

Much volunteer labor went into the building of the fire station. Volunteers, including members of the fire department and other residents of the area, pitched in to help dig the footers, hang the large overhead doors and put on the roofing of the building. A contractor was hired to lay the concrete blocks.

The fire department at Caledonia is composed of 25 men. Robert Allen is chief and Albert Dice is assistant chief. Secretary of the organization is M. E. Stafford, while Paul Fyffe is president.

The firemen have five pieces of equipment available for their use. In addition to the new truck, which was received late last October, a panel rescue truck and a tanker truck are housed in the new building, while still being housed in the old fire station are the first village-owned truck and a truck which was built by Mr. Dice in 1950.

The firemen are in the process of completing a 30-hour fire safety training course being taught by Chief R. H. Saum of the Crestline Fire Department. The men are scheduled to complete the course tonight.
